I Made A List Of 60+ Words & Phrases That ChatGPT Uses Too Often

Meta (not a prompt)

I've collated a list of words that ChatGPT loves to use. I've categorized them based on how the word is used, then listed them in each category based on the likelihood that chatgpt uses these words, where the higher up the list, the higher chance that you see the particular word in ChatGPT's response.

Delve drives me crazy lol

daniiiii555 • 2y ago

Same. Whenever I see a LinkedIn post with "delve" I automatically roll my eyes

ianbuk • 1y ago

I bet Daniiiiii555 had a quick delve into LinkedIn to pack that observation in.

Possible_Stomach_494 OP • 2y ago

Not as bad as "game changer" lol

How did tapestry not make the list

GeekTX • 2y ago

do you mean the same tapestry as the tapestry that is # 11 on the descriptor list? or do you mean another tapestry? ;)

rook_8 • 2y ago

Ah! See it on the list there. I am surprised it is #11 and not higher up

GeekTX • 2y ago

sweet ... I don't know about the rest of y'all round here but I am getting real fucking tired of these low effort ass posts. I believe I did a couple of other word salads on other posts from this person. :D

OP can you explain where you got your data from in order to add credibility to your list?

I have an “exclusions” list that is generated from a collection of over 1000 different prompt outputs.

aykray • 2y ago

What's your list, if you don't mind me asking? Have you/do you plan to share it?

fozrok • 2y ago

Sure. Happy to share.

Thank you so much, this is incredibly useful!

maxdosh • 2y ago

This is super useful. How do I use this in my prompt. Do i just add it at the bottom of my prompt?

fozrok • 2y ago

Yes. Add to bottom or top

You forgot 'feel free'

Possible_Stomach_494 OP • 2y ago

I rarely get that one. Do you get that with a specific writing style prompt?

reasonablyshorts • 2y ago

You're welcome! If you need any more assistance, feel free to ask.

TheColombian916 • 2y ago

Can someone ELI5 for me why these same words come up so often when the model has been trained on everything on the internet?

interparticlevoid • 1y ago

The training of ChatGPT used human feedback during training. So it's not placing equal importance on all of its training inputs. Its style of writing is influenced by what the people who ran the training thought was good style

"And furthermore Susan,"

Glass_Bicycle3247 • 2y ago

I had to ask it to stop using “elevate” in its marketing copy

RaveningDog • 2y ago

Don’t forget bustling.

Possible_Stomach_494 OP • 2y ago

From my experience, I would estimate that the most common of them all is "enhance."

It's almost a dead giveaway now if someone uses that word.

CreativeBasil5344 • 2y ago

So if I use the word "enhance" to enhance my comment, I'm ChatGPT?

TheWiseAlaundo • 2y ago

Yeah, I use 80% of the words on this list when writing scientific papers. GPT just writes using more formal language than most peoole

aykray • 2y ago

Yep, we all know what you are now!

Possible_Stomach_494 OP • 2y ago

Oh true. I get 'pivotal' quite frequently too. I'll add that in.

NidhiOnATree • 2y ago

Where's "potential"?

The_Horse_Shiterer • 2y ago

Hmmm, I must be a AI because I use such words.

maxdosh • 2y ago

Unleash....oh God I hate that word

New-Development7029 • 2y ago

I think "a wealth of" could be added to this list.

TheRoomProject • 7mo ago

Thank you for the list. I think I have seen these words more often on Chatgpt than in real life case.

Independent-Skill-28 • 6mo ago

"That's powerful"

shewy_3 • 5mo ago

"while"

"although"

"also"

And not least, complex sentences like "it's not just <whatever>; it's ,  and <c>". And then we have "it's so strong and deep"
